British Columbia's central region stretching from the Cariboo Mountains in the east to the Pacific Ocean in the west.

This is a region of contrasts; rolling grasslands and dense forests; snow capped mountains and lush green valleys; waterfalls that cascade into swift running rivers and green-blue lakes fed by mountain streams. It's gold rush country, it's cattle country. It's glaciers and alpine meadows, . . . and it's ancient rainforests and salt air. It's the wild splendour that is the Cariboo Chilcotin Coast.

With 70-100 bears coming to feed on the annual salmon runs, Bear Camp offers active and fun wildlife viewing.
